At the cake shop

By Lo Wai Tung, Cynthia (4A)

A few days ago, Tim wanted to buy a cake for his mum. He went to Sunshine Bakery because they have the best pastries in town. He went there at six in the early morning because the shop is most likely to be busy in the afternoon.

When Tim went inside, he was greeted by the shop's bestsellers, a fancy black forest chocolate cake and a sweet and creamy strawberry cake drizzled with chocolate sauce. Tim felt amazed because it was a discount day.

Tim wanted to buy the chocolate cake because it had better reviews but it was expensive, so he decided to buy the strawberry cake. However, there was a problem, he was stuck with an empty wallet! He had no choice but to go home.

He learnt that he has to remember to check everything he needs before leaving home.

A fun Fair

By Leung Oliver (4A)

It was last Sunday, I remembered it very well. It was the day when Willy Wonka's chocolate funfair popped up in the middle of Willy Park. My house was just next to it. My friend, Ben invited me to go there. We then decided to go to the chocolate funfair to have fun.

When we got to the funfair, the scenery was extraordinary. The chocolate buildings, the chocolate factories, the rivers and the chocolate waterfalls were amazing. After riding on a chocolate boat on the chocolate river, Ben suggested to have a ride on the roller coaster. At first, I was frightened of the scary roller coaster but Ben said it's only a piece of cake. So we did finally.

The place was very crowded. Two hours later, we got on the roller coaster. The roller coaster ran fast, it went nearly sixty miles per hour! Actually, it was not so scary and I tried to hold my hands in the air. Ben sat next to me, and his face turned pale. He held the handle bar tightly without saying a word. I rode the roller coaster for two more times while Ben was buying lunch.

We finally ate four cups of chocolate ice cream and went home happily. What a wonderful experience!

Tim wanted to buy the chocolate cake because he thought his mum liked chocolate. He felt satisfied. However, when he went to the cashier, he remembered he forgot to bring his wallet with him. He could not buy the cake because he had no money with him. He felt disappointed.

In the end, Tim ran back home and brought the wallet with him. Then, he ran back and bought the cake at the bakery. He was tired because he ran back home and ran back to the bakery. He learnt that he should always check his belongings before he leaves home.

A Fun Day

By Chan Ming Yuet, Moon (4C)

Last Sunday, Ben and I went to the Mooncake Funfair. We played on both the Ferris wheel and the bumper cars, but we did not play on the jumping castle or merry-go-round because we were not interested in them.

When we played the last round of the game, Ben looked at the funfair map and said, 'Let's just play one more ride and then we can go home.' 'Sure! But which one?' I said. Then Ben pulled my hand and ran to the roller coaster. I was excited! I saw a long line for the roller coaster. When we were waiting, I heard people on the roller coaster screaming, 'Aaaaah!'

I started to feel scared. Ben saw my face turn white and my legs tremble. He said worriedly, 'Amy, are you okay?' 'I ' m ... okay,' I said in a small voice. Twenty minutes later, it was our turn. When the coaster went up, I closed my eyes and 'Zooooom!' the roller coaster went down fast. I screamed loudly. I saw people wave their arms, and I waved my arms too.

In the end, Ben cried and I comforted him. What a fun day!

A Fun Time

By Wang Wing Kin, Jason (4C)

Last Sunday, Ben and I went to the Green Funfair. When we saw the fastest roller coaster, Ben suggested we go on it. There were a lot of people in line because it was the most popular ride. We were surprised and said, 'I can't wait to ride the roller coaster!' Ben and I ran to the line, but we heard people on the roller coaster screaming. Then I began to feel scared. Ben was talking to me, but I didn't talk back because I felt terrified. I could have said I was sick, but I didn't.

When we reached the front of the line, we walked onto the platform and climbed into the seat. After the roller coaster went up slowly, it then zoomed down quickly. Ben started to scream and closed his eyes, but I waved my arms. Finally, we got off the roller coaster, and Ben said, 'My stomach is rumbling!' I comforted him. After that, we said goodbye and went back home.

I learned that we should try it if we want to do it; don't give up.

A Bad Day

In the end, Emma told her mum what I did to her. Her mum said, "Eva, I will take away your toys for one week!" I felt sorry and I learnt a lesson that we should not hurt other people. I said sorry to Emma and she forgave me.

A Missing Necklace

By Sin Yuet Ching, Sienna (5A)

Ben and Betty went to the park last Sunday. They had so much fun.

Betty was about to go home but she realized she was missing her necklace, she was in a panic and she felt really worried. "I lost my necklace, it is really expensive!" she said. Ben suggested Betty to go to the Park Office. Betty replied, "You're so smart, Ben! Come on, let's go!" They both ran to the Park Office.

When they arrived, they saw a park officer with short curly hair and in a uniform. Betty asked the park officer if he had seen a lost necklace, sadly he had not seen one.

Betty was disappointed.

Betty did not give up and kept searching everywhere.
Ben helped Betty look around, Ben saw a woman in a spotted dress sitting on a bench. She was holding something. Ben whispered to Betty, "I think she stole it, she is holding something." Betty replied, "Let's hide and see what she is holding!" Ben agreed. Betty and Ben hid behind the tree hoping the woman would "open" her hands.

Turned out the woman was holding her necklace. Betty suddenly remembered something and said, "I remember now! I left my necklace on the swing!" "Betty!" Ben said loudly. Betty said, "I know! I'm careless." In the end, Betty got her necklace back and stopped being so careless again.

Yesterday morning, John and Sally came to the hospital to visit their mum. John and Sally were worried because their mum was sick. Mum said in a low voice, "John, please take care of Sally today." John and Sally felt unhappy, then John gave his mum a cup of warm water. Mum said in a low voice, "Thank you! John, please remember to take care of Sally." Then their mum went back to sleep.

John and Sally went home by themselves, they watched TV but Sally was hungry. Sally said, "I'm hungry. Can you cook me something to eat, please?" John replied, "Sure!" They checked the fridge but only found two cartons of milk and a jar of candies. John sighed and said. "There's no food in the fridge, maybe we should check the kitchen cabinet?" Sally nodded her head, they found some noodles but couldn't cook them by themselves. John said, "I can't cook noodles by myself." Sally replied, "I can't either." They felt helpless and hungry. Suddenly John got an idea and said, "Let's go to Jolly Fast Food Shop." Sally said, "Great idea!" However, Sally could not tie her shoelaces by herself. She said, "I can't tie my shoelaces by myself. Can you help me?" Then John helped Sally tie her shoelaces.

John and Sally went to Jolly Fast Food Shop.

The Sports Day

By Tang Yui Hei, Riva (5A)

Last Thursday, Kenny and Tom were in class. Ms. Chung asked the class, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Since they were teaching about dream jobs, Kenny said, "I want to be an athlete when I grow up." "Sure, an athlete needs to be good at doing sports. You need to be hard-working and humble." Ms. Chung said. After Kenny shared what he wanted to be when he grew up, the other students started sharing about their dream jobs too.

On Sports Day, Kenny and Tom got chosen by Mr Kwok to run in the one hundred metres race. Some participants were getting ready to run and some were ready to take part in the running race. When Tom was doing some warm up exercises on the track, Kenny looked at Tom and said, "Tom, I run very fast, you can't beat me!" Then he started laughing. Tom just stayed silent. Kenny was proud of himself but Tom was humble to Kenny. Tom did not say anything, he only looked back at Kenny.

The race was officially about to start, the participants got in position. When the horn blew, they all started running, Kenny ran fast in the race, Tom was catching up to Kenny. All the participants were nervous but focused on the race except Kenny. To him, it's just a normal run.

Suddenly, Kenny fell down. He was in pain. Tom saw Kenny was on the ground. He was deciding if he should help Kenny or not. At that time, they were very close to the finish line. Tom quickly looked at the other participants. They did not care about Kenny at all. They only cared about themselves.

In the end, Tom ran a little faster, so he could help Kenny quicker. Then, Tom helped Kenny get to the medical room and helped him treat his wound. "Thank you, Tom" Kenny said. "It's nothing, helping others is more important than winning." Tom said. Kenny said, "I'll try to learn from you, I will stop being so proud."

A strange place

By Ma Shun Yat, Theo (5B)

Last Saturday, I went to my grandparents' home to stay overnight. When I woke up, I found that I was in a strange place. The place was very different from where I lived.

I wanted to play online games, but I could not find any electronic products, so I went to the playground. I saw two girls playing hopscotch. I asked them, 'Where can I play online games?' They looked very confused and replied, 'We've never heard of this word.' At that moment, I was depressed and wanted to go home because they didn't have online games in this place. The two girls suggested they could take me on a tour of this place. When I went sightseeing, I found people not using mobile phones at all. On that day, I had so much fun.

Suddenly, I woke up in my grandparents' home, it was all a dream. Now I know I can have so much fun without electronic products. I decided to reduce my use of them.

Lost in the countryside

By Kam Chung Yin, Carson (5B)

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Chan went hiking in Ngong Ping Village because they wanted to enjoy an offline holiday. They were excited because they could visit the Big Buddha and enjoy the wonderful view.

Mrs. Chan said, 'I know Ngong Ping Village very well.' Mr. Chan believed her. An hour later, they found themselves lost! They went up and down the road and still could not find a way out. Mr. Chan asked, 'Do you even know Ngong Ping Village that well?' Mrs. Chan replied, 'Well, I guess I don't know this place very well.' They felt frightened and anxious.

At that moment, they were panicking because they did not know how to go home until they met a man named Tommy. They thought this was a miracle. Mr. and Mrs. Chan quickly asked Tommy, 'Do you know how far it is from here to the nearest bus stop?' 'Yes, it is about one kilometer, you go straight ahead ....' They said, 'Thank you very much!' So they ran as fast as they could but the last bus had already left.

At last, they took a taxi home, it was a scary yet fun day.

The Good Big Brother

By Chu Ho Hong, Samuel (5B)

Yesterday, Mum was sick. John and his sister Sally were very worried about her. They stayed home and took care of one another for the rest of the day.

Suddenly, Sally was hungry. She wanted to have a feast, but there was not any food left in the fridge. Sally cried, 'I'm hungry! Is there any more food?' John replied, 'Hmm, there are two packets of noodles in the cupboard.' However, both John and Sally could not cook by themselves.

After spending some time, Sally's shoelaces were untied. She asked John, 'Could you help me tie my shoelaces?' When John was helping Sally, he noticed Jolly Fast Food Shop was nearby. He said, 'Let's go there for lunch.' They ordered some food in the fast food shop to take home. Mum was glad for their kind act.

Lost in the countryside

By Chan Ho Man, Feynman (5C)

Last Sunday, Mr and Mrs Chan were bored at home. Mrs Chan suggested, 'Let's go hiking!' Mr Chan replied, 'Alright! It's better than doing nothing!' Therefore, they decided to go hiking to the Big Buddha so that they could enjoy an offline holiday and breathe some fresh air.

After a long bus ride, Mr and Mrs Chan finally arrived at Lantau Island. Mr Chan asked Mrs Chan, 'How far is it from here to the Big Buddha?' Mrs Chan replied, 'It's about 1.5 kilometres.' 'Wow! That's a long way!' Mr Chan exclaimed.

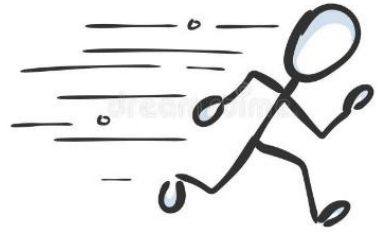

After walking for a while, they accidentally took a wrong turn and got lost. Mrs Chan asked, 'Where are we now?' Mr Chan answered, 'I don't know! I thought you had the map with you!' Mrs Chan said embarrassedly, 'Oh! I left it at home!' Her face turned red.

Soon, the sky became darker and darker. Luckily, Mr and Mrs Chan stumbled across a pedestrian. They asked the pedestrian, 'Excuse me. Could you please tell us the way to the nearest bus stop?' The pedestrian answered, 'First, go straight ahead. Turn left and walk along Sunny Road. Walk across the pedestrian crossing and it's on your right.' They thanked the pedestrian and started running. They ran as fast as they could.

When they reached the bus stop, the bus was leaving! They shouted at the top of their voices, 'Stop! Wait for us!' Unfortunately, the bus driver could not hear them. Mr Chan comforted Mrs Chan, 'No worries,' wiping his sweat off his forehead. 'We'll catch another bus in no time. Come on, sit down!'

Minutes went by and then those minutes turned into an hour. Mr Chan became impatient and he then checked the bus schedule. His jaw dropped to the floor because he found out that it was the last bus. They panicked and their minds were completely blank. They cried. They did not know what to do. Just then, Mr Chan saw a hotel. They regained hope and felt relieved. Soon, they rented a room and stayed there for a night.

In the end, Mr and Mrs Chan learned a lesson.
They should bring a map and a smartphone when they go hiking. What an unforgettable day!

The Sports Day

By Wong Yee Ching, Rachel (5C)

One month ago, Kenny and Tom were having an English lesson in the classroom. The teacher asked, 'What do you want to be when you grow up?' Kenny replied, 'I want to be an athlete because if I become an athlete, I will become popular and take part in competitions to win awards and medals!' The teacher replied, 'What a great dream! I think you can be a great athlete! Oh, there is a sports day in one month's time. You can be a 'small athlete' there!'

On the sports day, Kenny and Tom went to the Shatin sports ground and they joined the 100 metres race. Before the race began, Kenny said to Tom, 'Tom, you can't beat me because I am too fast! Hahaha!' His hands were on hips. Tom replied, 'I don't care about the results, but I think you shouldn't look down on others. Well, let's do our best in the competition.' Then Tom warmed up himself for the race but Kenny didn't.

One minute later, the judge said, 'The first summons of 100 metres race. The second summons of 100 metres race. The third summons of 100 metres race.' Tom told Kenny, 'Kenny, we should go down stairs now.' 'OK!' Kenny replied. Ten minutes later, it's Kenny's and Tom's turn. They saw many athletes apart from them. '3,2,1 beep!' and the competition began. At first, all the athletes were in the starting line. Kenny ran as fast as wind and he led the competition. When he almost reached the finish line, he tripped over a rock. 'Ouch!' Kenny yelled. When Tom saw Kenny fall down, he thought,

'Should I help him or should I keep running? I think I should help him up.' Then Tom helped up Kenny. The audience saw their action. They cheered up Tom and Kenny because they thought the safety and friendship were more important than the result. Tom said worriedly, 'Are you ok? Do you have any wounds?'

Finally, Tom took Kenny to the medical room. The doctor bandaged Kenny's wound and said, 'Remember to be careful next time.' Kenny replied ashamedly, 'Ok!' After that, he said to Tom, 'I am sorry, Tom. I shouldn't look down on you. Can we be friends again?' 'Of course, yes!' Tom replied. They jumped up and down, smiled as big as a sun and became best friends forever.

In this incident, Kenny learnt to be careful and shouldn't be proud to people.

Once upon a time, there were two woodcutters. Tom was a lazy boy who did not work hard. He only sat on the rock to rest. Peter was as hard-working as an ant. He cut many trees every day.

One day, they were in the forest. Peter was cutting trees busily. Tom was sitting on the rock and eating an apple. Peter said, 'My mother is sick. I need to earn more money to save her.'

Then Tom and Peter were thirsty so they went to the river side to drink some water. Suddenly, their axes dropped into the river. They felt scared and worried. Then a fairy appeared. She was kind. She looked like a young girl. Peter told her, 'We dropped our axes into the river. Could you help us? After that the fairy showed them two axes. One was gold. One was silver. She asked, 'Are these yours?' Peter replied, 'Yes, they're ours.' He felt great! Tom replied, 'No, the gold axe and the silver axe are not ours.' He felt worried.

In the end, the fairy said, 'Peter, although you are dishonest, you can sell the axe and earn the money to cure your mother 's disease. The fairy said to Tom, 'Tom, although you are lazy, you are honest.' Then the fairy gave both of them two silver axes. Peter kept working hard so he earned enough money to cure his mother. Tom sold the axe and retired.

A Charity Event at Tom's School

By Fung Pak Sum, Sam (6B)

Last Friday, the teacher said, 'There will be a walkathon to help the children in China. Who wants to join?' Tom felt excited and said, 'I want to join!'

On the next day, Tom was in the park. He was so delighted because it was his first time to go on a walkathon. He was already at the starting line. He brought water and food and other things for his walk. He thought he was well prepared.

At first, Tom started very easily. He thought that a walkathon was very simple. But in the middle of the route, he needed to go on a hill. He was very tired so he drank a lot of water. Gradually his water bottle was empty! In the end, he reached the end but he didn't have any water left. He was thirsty and tired.

Luckily, the teacher gave him a bottled water. He was so thankful and thought, 'I need to bring more water next time!'

The Animals Meeting

By Tse Chun Ho, Alex (6B)

Recently, those nasty humans began to destroy the Earth much harder! Therefore, I called out a meeting with the endangered animals.

'So this is the meeting for the destruction of the Earth and the problem of hunters killing us...' I said, 'Just say anything you want.' The Asian elephant said, 'Those creatures killed us for our tusks to make ivory ornaments! Also, they destroy forests to make useless paper and cardboard boxes! They should also recycle paper! Look at our habitat - it is all destroyed!'

Yeah...'said the tiger, 'But our condition is much worse than you! We are hunted for our fur to make tiger bags, coats, carpets...And much more! They should stop wearing fur coats!'

That's sad...' said the panda, 'Humans also cut down bamboos and we have no food to eat! Many of us are starving to death!' 'Since many of us are facing danger,' I said, 'we should organise a protest to inform people to take care of the environment and stop killing animals!' All animals agreed with that.

In the end, humans stopped killing us and destroying the environment! I guess our protest really worked! After all, we now have a happy life in the forest!

A surprise for Grandma

By Wong Lok Ching, Elsa (6C)

Last week was Grandma's birthday. Mum knew how to make cakes so we were going to make a good-looking cake for her. We did the grocery shopping to buy the ingredients of the cake.

Grandma likes eating strawberries, so mum decided to make a strawberry cake for her.

We have prepared all the ingredients, such as some eggs, flour, sugar, butter and strawberries. First, we beat the butter and sugar together. Then, after the butter and sugar became creamy, we added the eggs and stirred them well. Next, we sifted the flour before we added it to the mixture. After that, we stirred the mixture gently. Afterwards, we poured the mixture into a cake tin.

Then, we chopped the strawberries and put them in a pan. We added a spoonful of sugar and a little water before we stirred them well. Finally, we poured the strawberry topping over the cake.

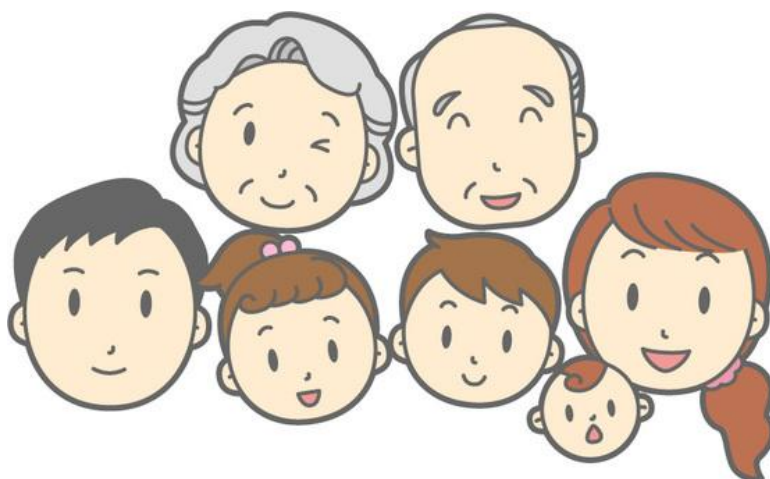

Mum and I put the cake in the oven. While mum was cleaning the utensils, she said, 'Betty, please set the oven for 13 minutes.' However, I misheard that I needed to set the oven for 30 minutes. When the 30 minutes passed by, I took the cake out of the oven with my gloves. I found out that the cake was partly frazzled! It was as dark as ebony. I was discouraged and hopeless. I was about to cry but mum comforted me. She said, 'Let's go to the cake shop to buy another cake!'

Although I burned the cake, mum didn't shout at me. We went to the cake shop and bought a strawberry cake. We celebrated with grandma happily. I said, 'Grandma, I beg you a pardon! I have carelessly burnt the birthday cake.' However, grandma didn't feel down but she smiled, 'I'm surprised!' She said to me softly, 'That's okay!' I enjoy having such fun with you at my birthday party! I was on the top of the world. We had much joy in grandma's birthday party. We played UNO and watched YouTube and movies. Eventually, mum used a knife to cut the birthday cake into three pieces. We ate all the cakes. We smiled as big as a sun.

I have learnt to be more attentive next time.

Going on a walkathon

By Lee Yuet Kan, Ken (6C)

Last week, Miss Cheung told the 6C classmates about WeHelp. Miss Cheung said, 'Do you know what is WeHelp?' Tom replied, 'I know. It is a charity which helps people who are in need. Miss Cheung answered, 'You are right. In China, there was an earthquake and the earthquake destroyed many people's homes. The buildings fell down and injured a lot of people. Now, we will help the children who lost their homes. Does anyone want to join?' Tom questioned, 'Then what can we do to help the children?' Miss Cheung answered, 'Maybe we can go on a walkathon. A walkathon is a long walk which can ask people to donate money to the charity. If the charity has enough money, it will give supplies, food and drink to the victims and rebuild the buildings which have been destroyed by the natural disasters.' Tom said, 'We can participate in a walkathon so that we can raise money and also can help us stay healthy.'

The next day, Tom and his classmates went to the park and looked forward to joining the walkathon. In the park, Tom saw there were a lot of people. He heard someone chanting loudly, 'Help us in a walkathon to help the poor people!' One of his classmates said, 'We can hold a banner too!' After a while, they chanted the slogan, 'There are many children around the world that need our help! Can you help us?'

One hour later, the walkathon started. At first, everyone was energetic and they walked to the finish line. Twenty minutes later, Tom was tired. Suddenly, he knew that his water bottle was empty. He thought, 'Oh no! My water bottle is empty!' He cried like a baby.

He felt thirsty.

Suddenly, one of his classmates said, 'Tom, are you okay? I can carry you to the finish line!' Then he carried Tom to the finish line. On the way to the finish line, he felt very nervous because he didn't walk to the finish line by himself and he needed other classmates to carry him. Later, they arrived at the finish line. He said to his classmate, 'Thank you so much for helping me to reach the finish line. Are you very tired?' 'You are welcome!' The classmate answered.

Finally, WeHelp used the money that it raised in the walkathon to help poor children to rebuild houses. It also gave food and drinks to the victims so that they could have a better day!

A Greedy Woodcutter

By Tang Hoi Ching, Jova (6C)

Once upon a time, there were a greedy woodcutter and his brother, Peter and Tom. They were impoverished and wore shabby clothes. Peter was chopping wood, and he murmured to himself, 'My mother is as sick as a dog so I need to earn money to buy medicine.' Peter was as hard-working as an ant. He always worked from dawn to dusk, but he could be greedy and dishonest sometimes. On the other hand, Tom was rather a carefree person. He was sitting on a rock and eating an apple while Peter was working very hard. However, he was as honest as a mirror.

Peter was tired because he swung his axe very hard. He was dripping with sweat. He wanted to drink some water. Peter asked Tom to accompany him to get water. Tom agreed, so they walked to the river. They also brought their axes because they didn't want people to steal them.

When Tom and Peter were bending their back to get some water, they accidentally put the axes near the riverside and they fell into the river. Peter whined, 'What are we going to do? We dropped our axes and we cannot chop wood and sell them for money!' Tom saw Peter panicking so he tried to comfort him.

All of a sudden, a fairy appeared out of nowhere and asked them what was wrong. The fairy was as kind as an angel and as pretty as a butterfly. She always put a smile on her face. Peter told the fairy that Tom and he had dropped their axes in the river. Peter's and Tom's lips were quivering and their legs were trembling.

Then, the fairy asked, 'One is gold, one is silver. Are these yours?'

Peter saw that the gold and silver axes were as bright as the stars at night. He allowed his greed to consume him. He said with a big smile, 'Yes, they're ours!' 'No, the gold axe and the silver axe are not ours!' Tom said to the fairy, 'Very well, then, are these yours?' The fairy showed two old and dirty axes and asked. 'No, they're not ours.' said Peter. 'Yes, they're ours.' said Tom. Peter secretly gave Tom a displeased look and whispered, 'Tom! What are you doing! Don't you want to get the gold and silver axes and sell them for a lot of money for mother's medicine?' Tom whispered back, 'I do, but honesty is very important!'

The fairy knew that Peter was lying and Tom was telling the truth. Therefore, she rewarded Tom with the gold and silver axes, but gave Peter the old and dirty axes. 'What! Why does he get the gold axe and the silver axe, but not me?' shouted Peter. 'I gave him the axes because he is truthful.' Suddenly, she vanished into the air without leaving a trace.

After a while, Tom noticed Peter was hanging his head so he offered to share his axes with him. Peter was extremely grateful. He cried with the tears of joy.

After this experience, both Tom and Peter learnt that they should fulfil filial piety, always be honest and not let their greed consume them.

One day, Peter and Tom were chopping woods. Suddenly, Peter felt that he was teleported to somewhere. He saw the fairy say to him, 'Have you learnt your lesson?' 'Yes, I have!' explained Peter. 'Then, I shall give you the gold axe and the silver axe as well.' She said it and gave Peter the two axes. 'Thank you! Thank you!' Peter smiled with glee and gratitude.

When Peter found himself back at the forest, he saw Tom trying to wake him up. Apparently, he had fainted when he got teleported. 'It's alright now.' said Peter, also showing Tom the gold axe and the silver axe. Tom was confused, but he was delighted for Peter.

The Animal Meeting

By Leung Lok Ting, Leanne (6C)

Today, I invited all the animals in the forest to have a meeting. I asked a few animal leaders about their problems. Eddie the elephant said sadly, "Nowadays people keep chopping down the trees in our lands. Therefore, there are fewer trees left!" I replied, "Oh no! This is bad! People keep destroying our lands and trees," Eddie shouted. "Also, the hunters are killing my friends every day for ivory products, like chopsticks and jewelry! Now our population is decreasing rapidly!" After I heard about the elephants' cries, I felt sad for them.

Then, I asked Charlie the cheetah about her situation. Charlie yelled, "My friends and family are being hunted every day because of our beautiful striped skin! When I saw them being killed, I felt so much pain! It's such a crime to make fur coats! We will become extinct!" Charlie cried loudly after that. After that, Polly the panda bit his lips and cried, "Since there is less wood in the forest, woodcutters come to the bamboo forest to cut bamboo for making furniture! Therefore, the pandas don't have food to eat and we are hungry!" Then an ache started deep in Polly's stomach.

At last, I felt so angry about human beings, so I led all the animals to the human world to let them know about the terrible situation! When we arrived, I saw many people looking afraid. I roared loudly, "You humans! Stop destroying our lands! The forest is almost destroyed by you all!" Then the animals shouted about their problems. Then we went back to the forest. Later, the humans never destroyed our lands again!

Playing with water guns isn't fun!

By Leung Chun Ki, Kiki (6D)

Last week, Jamie and Jason were at home. They felt bored after doing homework. Jason suggested they play with water guns. Jamie liked that idea. She said, 'Nice idea, let's play!' She felt excited. They filled the water guns with water and shot each other. The living room, the sofa, the floor and the table were filled with water. Everywhere was wet.

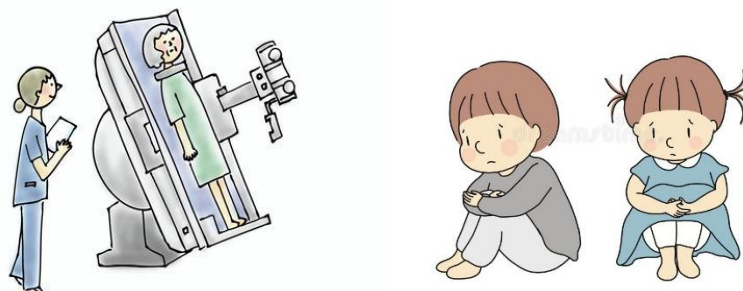

A few minutes later, grandma came out from her bedroom. She wanted to go to the bathroom. Suddenly, she stepped on the water, she slipped and fell on the ground. She hurt her arm and her back. She fainted on the floor. Jamie and Jason felt shocked and didn't know what to do. Mum heard a big sound and saw grandma on the floor. They went to the hospital immediately.

The doctor said, 'She needs to stay in the hospital for a week.' Jamie and Jason felt worried. Mum asked the doctor, 'Is she alright?' The doctor replied, 'She had an X-ray and she has a broken arm.' Jamie and Jason felt sorry and blamed themselves.

In the end, mum shouted at them. Jamie said, 'We are sorry. We will clean up the living room and take care of grandma.' Mum forgave them but took away their water guns.
